

CONNELLSVILLE HAS FIRST WOMAN ON MURDER JURY

Mrs. W. O. Schoonover Named Today in Case of Elmer Miller.

ALEX. HART IS CHOSEN

Only Two Questions Put to West Side Man, First as to Residence, Second as to Attitude on Death Penalty. Defendant Pleads Not Guilty.

To Mrs. Anna B. Schoonover wife of W. O. Schoonover of Connellsville fell the lot of being chosen today as the first woman to sit on a jury in a murder trial in Fayette county. Mrs. Schoonover was selected as juror No. 3 in the case of Elmer Miller of Franklin township, who is accused of killing his wife at their home in Vanderbilt.

Answering questions of counsel Mrs. Schoonover said she did not have contentious scruples, but would prevent her returning a verdict of murder in the first degree if the evidence warranted it.

Mrs. Schoonover has been prominent in club work in Connellsville for a number of years and since the granting of suffrage to women has been active politically.

Alex W. Hart of the West Side was the first juror accepted. He was asked but two questions, both by the Commonwealth counsel. The first was where he lived, the other his attitude on capital punishment.

Two men called following Mr. Hart were excused because of scruples against the death penalty.

Houston Robert of Merrittstown was the fifth man called and was selected as Juror No. 1.

Other jurors selected up to 2:30 this afternoon were C. A. McCann and John I. Keener, Uniontown, J. W. Tichiboh, Mcallen township, and Presley B. Dixon, South Union township.

Seven women were examined in addition to Mrs. Schoonover. Four had scruples against capital punishment and were excused. One was temporarily challenged.

Ident Val, farmer of German township, refused to be sworn and was was affirmed. Finally he refused to answer questions and was discharged.

Miller was arraigned at 1:15 o'clock before Judge J. Q. Van Sweringen. He pleaded not guilty. He is being defended by A. O. Tabor and W. C. McCann, John Duggan Jr. assisting District Attorney William A. Miller for the prosecution.

After deliberating for more than 10 hours a jury returned a verdict of guilty and recommended the extreme mercy of the court in the case of Elmer Shaw constable in German township, charged with extorting $70 from Ste. Markovich in settlement of a liquor case.

STRIKE MENACE BOOSTS OUTPUT OF SOFT COAL

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 20.—Production of aluminum coal in the United States stimulated by the possibility of a strike on or after April 1, is climbing upward to levels never surpassed except during the peak of the war boom and the following industrial expansion, according to estimates issued by the Geological Survey. During the week ending March 11, the output of reporting mines was 11,078,000 tons or 1,000,000 more tons than were mined in the same week of the previous year, and only 2,000,000 less than the greatest total ever mined in a similar period.

Halfway into the leading report to Monday and Tuesday of the following week, however, the survey shows that production was going still higher than the previous week.

WHO WEARS OUT YOUR HUSBAND'S CUFF EDGES?

It is not your husband's fault that his cuffs get frayed and have to be turned while the shirt is still good. To be sure he gets the cuffs dirtier than in any other part of the shirt, but it is the rubbing you do getting the dirt out that wears the material.

Most of that rubbing is not necessary. Soaking in Rinol will get the cuffs just as clean without weakening a single thread. The rich, cleansing Rinol suds gently loosen all the dirt so that a thorough rinsing carries it off. If there is sometimes a fine line that is not entirely soaked out, rub lightly with dry Rinol and that too will disappear at once.

Make your husband's shirts last twice as long. Save the wear and tear of rubbing so disastrous to clothes, such as denim on your own strength.

SENATOR CROW USED THE RIGHT TERMS.

In refuting the scandalous report that a financial consideration is involved in his rumored resignation from the Senate and withdrawal as a candidate for the full term, Senator W. E. Crow has used the right terms in defining the object and purposes of the malicious lures who originated and gave circulation to the baseless tale.

In declaring that "the report was spun out of the whole cloth, not by an imaginative newspaperman as some believe, but by political conspirators bent on ruinous reputations, so that their disreputable political ends could be met," Senator Crow has described in precise terms the character of the individuals who have sought to take mean and unfair advantage of the impairment of his health to further their own selfish interests.

Friends of Senator Crow have been aware that ever since he was suggested as the successor of the late Senator Knox, a despicable conspiracy has been in existence to make the recovery of his health so much a matter of doubt that he would be forced to resign and thus leave the way clear to the ghouls who would not scruple at anything to accomplish their purpose.

If they have succeeded to the extent that the final decision of the Senator's medical advisers will be that he would seriously endanger his health by remaining in public life, the blame for it will lie with the dastardly and criminal cowards who have conducted the dirty campaign. For their part in it they will deserve to be forever shamed by every self-respecting citizen.

COMPENSATION CAN BE PAID
WITHOUT NEW TAXES.

A very large part of the propaganda in opposition to adjusted compensation for the veterans of the World War has been devoted to creating a widespread impression that the cash provisions of the proposed bill cannot be met without the imposition of special taxes, without embarrassment of the Treasury, or resort to the use of the unsound and iniquitous certificate feature, incorporated in the bill by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Friends of the measure who have made a careful study of the situation know differently. Among such persons none are better qualified to speak than A. Pratt Andrew, member of Congress from Massachusetts formerly assistant secretary of the Treasury, director of the Mint and professor of economics at Harvard. Out of his large experience in these capacities he has contributed an article to the current issue of The American Legion Weekly under the caption, "Yes, Compensation Can Be Paid," which is by far the most informing that has been published upon this much discussed phase of the compensation question. In it Mr. Andrew says:

"One year's extraordinary statements about the probable expense involved and estimates varying all the way from one to fifty to seventy-five billions of dollars."

"What are the facts?"

"If the bill were adopted in the form in which it was introduced it might, in case all veterans choose cash compensation, cost $1,500,000,000 in the course of the next three years, and that would be all that it would ever cost. On the other hand all veterans were to select as their option the alternative of paid-up insurance, it might cost a little over $5,000,000,000 at the end of 20 years, when the insurance matures. Those are the maximum and minimum costs involved in the present bill and the actual cost will depend upon the choice of the veterans as between the different alternatives."

According to the estimate, made by Secretary Mellon based on the supposition that half the veterans would take cash and half insurance, it would cost about $100,000,000 for each of the first two years and very little thereafter until the expiration of the insurance. These are indeed formidable sums, but taking the maximum payments for the next three years of $1,500,000,000 on the assumption of every soldier choosing cash, the total would not amount to half as much per capita for our people as the compensation which Canada paid to her soldiers involved for her population.

"How, you may ask is this great sum to be paid?"

"It should be noted in passing that the suggestion of levying special taxes to meet a special expenditure has never been raised before in connection with the adjustment of compensation for any other war claimants. When the Dent Act was passed, which arranged for settling claims of war contractors, no particular revenue measure was provided, although the actual compensation paid under that act amounted to nearly $3,000,000,000. No prejudice was created against these claimants and there was little protest against them, because they were paid out of the general resources of the Treasury and no definite taxes were assigned for their settlement. The same is true of the adjustment of the compensation of the railroad, amounting to $500,000,000 for the losses incurred under war administration. It is true also of the $40,000,000 voted to compensate mine owners for losses incurred merely in getting ready to produce minerals for chemical warfare, but without actually producing them. It is true of the many millions voted for the relief of Shipping Board contractors.

"If, as has been suggested we now incorporate new taxes in the act adjusting the compensation of the veterans, we shall discriminate in a manner quite without precedent against the claims of those who offered to their country, not property, but their youth and their lives—claims amounting to only a fraction of those already paid for property. We shall help to turn what is intended to be, and what ought to be, an expression of gratitude, into a source of criticism and dispraise of those same veterans. This has in fact, already resulted from the agitation of such proposals.

"But can those claims for back pay for the veterans be adjusted without ruin and disaster to the business interests, and without overburdening the taxpayers of the country?

"I am confident that the necessary revenue can be provided without further taxation and without further borrowing. If the results of the recent Conference for the Limitation of Armaments are anywhere near as substantial as we have been led to believe, the resultant economies in the appropriations for the Army and Navy will amount to at least $200,000,000 yearly. The two economies that were not contemplated and taken account of in next year's budget, the War Finance Board which, according to present legislation, will be liquidated on July first next, has many millions of government money which will be released. We are continually told of new economies which will be accomplished by the Budget Committee, and that there are other economies in prospect.

"But even if these sources did not exist merely the interest already accrued, of which we annually accrue on the British debt alone would be sufficient to meet the soldiers' claims to the same degree as that of France and Italy upon reparation payments from Germany, and because the British government has already begun to reduce its own domestic debt with the last few weeks, in fact amounting to $500,000,000 (over $200,000,000) in interest to the United States has been arranged for in next year's British budget.

"In one or another of these ways or by combining several of these ways our veterans can be compensated without increased taxation without increased loans, and without even touching the principal of the debts which are owing us. Congress ought in justice to the veterans, to pass the Adjusted Compensation Bill without annexing special revenue measures, and it not only ought to do so, but it can do so without risk of serious embarrassment to the Treasury."

It could be added to what Mr. Andrew has said that the elimination of the $160,000 free steel grant, re-incorporated in the Agricultural Appropriation Bill and other items it divested from waste and wasteful uses, would still more certainly make it possible and easy to meet the cash needs of adjusted compensation and without in any way embarrassing the Treasury. Such effort, in the direction of economy in expenditure of the people's money would also be with greater credit and honor to the members of Congress who have so soon forgotten the 80,000 young men to the soldier boys when they marched away to do and die for their country.

While there was much guessing at the Industrial Flat there can be no guessing about the success of the undertaking.

The fact that the Detroit millionaire spender could not dodge the penalty ought to put a little more courage into officers in other sections where speeding has become an evil.

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat Less Meat If You Feel Backache or Have Bladder Trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excretes and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full or sedimented; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's uricous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then set free and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful after-dinner lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

High School Stages Real Come-back and Wins Game From Strong Monessen Five

McCormick Makes Final Goal Which Breaks Tie as Whistle Blows.

QUINTET AWAY OFF FORM

By James M. Driscoll
Sporting Editor

After playing a rather slow and uninteresting game for three quarters during which it was trailing most of the time, the Connellsville High School basketball team wakened up and, putting on added speed in the final five minutes, cut down a five-point lead and won the contest from the fast Monessen aggregation, 31-29.

Connellsville was defeated by Monessen on the floor at that place recently and had anticipated handing the visitors a worse beating than was finally administered. For a long time it looked as though the locals would not put through at all. Then a long distance shot, which looked ridiculously foolish as it started toward the basket from the hands of "Mickey" McCormick, proved a bullseye, and it seemed to stir the team to action. The remainder of the game was well worth watching and the rosters took full advantage of the opportunity to yell lustily.

The half ended with Connellsville leading by two points 14-12. Monessen scored more goals from the floor than did the Celts but the locals did better on the foul line. Solsman was off form in ringing up the free ones but McCormick filled his place very well.

Lowney, for Connellsville, was getting the tip regularly but this advantage seemed of little value to the Celts, whose forwards seldom got the ball.

The final rally made up for all poor playing exhibited in the early stages, however. When Connellsville was still one point behind there were two minutes to play. Then a foul goal by McCormick tied up the score. It was "Mickey" who finally made the winning goal, tossing it in from the side just seconds before the whistle blew.

The line-up: Connellsville-31; Monessen-29. Substitutions: Olsusky for Nixon, LaRue for Welsh, Harmon for Solsman, Solsman for Lowney, Welsh for Olsusky, Lowney for Harmon, Nixon for LaRue, Bertinatti for Schradling, Schradling for P. Phillette, Moore for Bertinatti, Allison for J. Phillette.

OHIOVILLE, March 20—Over a hundred guests were present Friday evening at the farewell reception in honor of Rev. R. B. Dunmire, pastor of the Baptist Church, his sister, Mrs. Jessie Dunmire, and their mother, Mrs. S. C. Snyder, who are leaving April 1 for Titusville, Pa. Rev. W. L. Whiteley has been pastor of the Baptist Church for the past two years and has gained most of friends who, though regretting to see the family leave, wish them all success in their new abode.

The evening's program consisted of prayer by E. S. Jackson, song by the choir; piano duet, Miss Dunmire and Mildred Bailey; talk, Rev. L. F. Abey of Connellsville, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church here; solo, Mrs. R. C. Holt and Mrs. O. M. Waters, piano solo, Daniel Holt; solo, James Balles, piano solo, Goldie Jackson; talk, J. F. Woodhams; duet, Jean Holt and Virginia Bailey; solo, Kathryn Hostetler; talk, Rev. Dunmire, solo, Adeline Potter; talk, W. H. Hostetler.

After the evening's program, W. H. Hostetler presented Rev. Dunmire with a pair of gold cuff links, Miss Dunmire with a gold brooch and Mrs. Snyder with a sterling silver preserving set in behalf of the many friends of the family. The Ladies Aid of the church served lunch.

Miss Dunmire played the church piano and greatly assisted her brother in all of his services. She had a class of music pupils that was progressing rapidly. Her students took part in the evening's program.

FIGURES OF SPEECH ANNOY

Imaginative Writer Portrays Indignation Meetings to Protest Against Certain Comparisons.

New York—Officers of the United States navy took concerted action today in protest of authors and public speakers who use the expression "spend money like a drunken sailor."

Philadelphia—An indignation meeting was held today in Independence Hall by the Society for the Protection of Hatters, who protested the use by writers and public speakers of the expression "as mad as a hatter."

Chicago—The Independent Order of Taxicab Drivers will meet tonight at the Blackstone to protest the indiscriminate use of the characterization "a former member of the James gang now driving a taxi," and similar terms of opprobrium they say have been heaped upon chauffeurs who drive cars for hire.

Omaha—The local union of jackrabbits hunters at a meeting today decided to petition congress for a bill prohibiting writers and public speakers using the simile "as wild as a March hare." They say such language is discouraging to those who hunt such prey.

San Antonio—The International League of Crutch Makers went on strike today in protest of several vaudeville comedians who recently used the expression "as funny as a crutch" in local playhouses—Kansas City Star.

WERE SYMBOLS OF CREATION

Among Ancient Egyptians the Beetle Was Believed to Be the Form of the Sun God.

A scarab is the representation of the sacred beetle found on Egyptian gems, coins, amulets, obisks and works of art. The appearance and rapid multiplication of beetles in the mud lot on the subsidence of the Nile gave rise to the belief in their spontaneous generation and they became the symbol of creation and creative power. In their circular shape and the bright golden tints of their wing cases they were thought to resemble the shape and luster of the sun and thus were taken to be the forms in which the sun god appeared.

Scarabs were cut in stones and employed as seals and amulets. They were bored through their length so that they could be strung like beads. After the coming of the Egyptian with other races, agnostics and Christians interpreted the meaning of these gems in accordance with their own beliefs. Those of the most ancient period, such as are found on amulets, are inscribed with the names of the kings held in highest veneration, Thothmes III, Rameses II and Amenophis III, and frequently with some hieroglyphic symbol. The larger of them have some short religious or historic inscription on their under side.

HOW MUCH DO YOU SPEND FOR THE FAMILY WASHING?

Have you ever figured it out? Do. The result will astonish you. First, there's the soap. Put that down. Then the starch. Put that down. Then the glue. Put that down. Then the laundry. Put that down. Then the gas or coal. Put that down. These are items you can easily figure. Then there is wear and tear on washing machines, tubs, washboards, wringers, brushes, mangle lines, clothes pins. These are represented by a standing investment which must be considered, because these items wear out and must be replaced.

ONE MONTH LATER

Well I've been here another whole month and I'm growing older all the time. I just love it here. I love the sunshine everywhere and the curtains up to let in. And the flowers in the room and the little sun dish on the dining room table the books and magazines just lying around ready to be picked up. I like to sing and sing all over the house, and lovely ladies and gentlemen in the drawing room, having music and tea and little cakes when I come home from school in the afternoon. And I love it not to have to look up and watch and listen for fear Father's coming in and I'll be making a noise. We were all in the library reading after dinner, and Grandpa took up from his paper and said something about a woman that was sentenced to be hanged and how a whole lot of men were writing letters protesting against having a woman hanged; but there were only one or two letters from women. And Grandpa said that only went to prove how much more lacking in a sense of it now of things women were than men. And he was just going to say more when Aunt Hattie brushed up and turned her skin, and said, real indignantly:

"A sense of shame of things, indeed! Oh, yes, that's all very well to say. There are plenty of men, no doubt, who are shocked beyond anything at the idea of hanging a woman; but these same men will think nothing of going straight home and making life for some other woman as absolutely miserable that she'd think hanging would be a lucky escape from something worse."

"Harrer!" exclaimed Grandpa in a shocked voice.

"Well, I mean it," declared Aunt Hattie emphatically. "Look at poor Madge here, and that wretched bunch of hers!"

And Mother was happy. I am she is. Somebody is doing something for her every moment—seems so. She's so glad to get her back again. I know they are. I heard two ladies talking one day and they said they were "This called for 'Poor Madge'" and "Dear Madge" and they said it was a shame that she should have had such a wretched experience and that they for one should try to do everything they could to make her forget.

And that's what they all seem to be trying to do—to make her forget. There isn't a day goes by that somebody sends flowers or books or candy, or invites her somewhere, or takes her to ride or to the theater or comes to see her, so that Mother is in just as much of a fool as she was this morning till now. Why she just has to forget. She doesn't have any time to remember. I think she is for getting too. Of course she gets tired and sometimes falls asleep or twilight. I find her in the sofa in her room reading or writing and her face looks just as it used to sometimes after the children having one of their incontinence things. But I don't find her that way very often, and it doesn't go long. So I really think she is forgetting.

About the prospective suitors—I found that prospective editor in a story a week ago and I just love it. It means you probably will want to marry her, you know. I see at the time now in my mind—when I'm thinking about her, grandmother that comes here (the uninvited ones). I forgot and used to be in love with Aunt Hattie, but I didn't again. She said, "My, my," and now in her hands and I looked over to see what she does when she sees something she thinks is pretty awful.

But I was born and identified—but very poor and pleasant—so I said that I didn't see why she should be all that for, of course they were prospective suitors, the uninvited ones, and even some of the invited ones, mostly like Mr. Harlow, for of course they could go. It's a good thing.

"Mine," but I think Aunt Hattie then before I said a mouthful of words or go on to explain that of course Mother could be expected to stay unmarried, though I was very sure she wouldn't get married again until it was perfectly ripe, and get tired of her to take up herself another husband.

But Aunt Hattie was in her room and she threw up her hands and said, "Mark!" again with the emphasis on the last part of the name. It was I, I simply loathed. And she had never even to let her hands make such a speech as that again. And I said I would be very careful not to. And you may. Since I shall. I don't want to go through it again like that again.

She told Mother about it though. I think anyhow they were talking very easily together when they came into the library after dinner that night, and Mother looked sort of flushed and puffed up, and I heard her say, "Perhaps the child does read too many novels that."

And Aunt Hattie answered, "Of course she does. Then she said something else which I didn't catch, only the words 'all' and 'romantic' and 'prey'." I don't know what that last means but I put it out of my mind.

Then they turned and I saw no, they didn't say anything more. But the next morning the perfectly easy story I was reading, it was that the next day, when she was up in the room, I heard her say, "I think that I must just go to see her."

Grandpa didn't say anything but just gave his funny little snort again.

And he was kind of queer, when you come to think of it—about Mother, I mean—and I thought,

IF YOU HAD A
NECK
AS LONG AS THIS FELLOW,
AND HAD SORE THROAT
ALL THE
WAY DOWN
TONSILINE
SHOULD QUICKLY RELIEVE IT
AS AND SOON AS ALL DRUGGISTS

And Mother isn't a mite queer to one than she is to any of the others. Any body can see that. And she shows very plainly she has no notion of picking anybody out to go. But of course I can't help being interested and watching.

It won't be Mr. Harlow, anyway. I'm pretty sure I think even if he has started in to get his divorce. (And he has.) I hear I, Aunt Hattie tell Mother she isn't good. But Mother doesn't like him. I am sure she doesn't. She makes her a study, however. Oh she laughs and talks with him—especially when she has just arrived. But she always looks around for somebody to talk to, and I've seen her sit up and move off just as he was coming across the room toward her and I've just said to her, "There's another reason to like him. I think Mother isn't going to choose him for her lover. I heard something she said to him one day.

She was sitting before the fire in the library and he came in. There were other people there quite a lot of them, but Mario was all alone in the library, his eyes looking fixed and dreamy into the fire. I was in the window set around the corner of the chimney reading until I could see Mother in the mirror just as plain as could be. She should have seen me too of course if she'd looked up. But she didn't.

I never even thought of hearing anything I hadn't ought and I was just going to get down and spend to father myself when Mr. Harlow crossed the room and sat down in the sofa beside her.

"Dreaming Madge," he said low and soft, his soulful eyes just devouring her lovely face. (I read that too in a book, last week. I just loved it.) Mother started and flushed up.

"Oh, Mr. Harlow," she cried.

"Mother always calls him 'Me.' That's another thing. He always calls her 'Madge' you know." "How do you do?" They gave her quick little looks around to see if there wasn't somebody else near for her to talk to but there wasn't.

But she does dream of the old days sometimes. Madge don't you?" he said. "Mother always calls him 'Me.' That's another thing. He always calls her 'Madge' you know." "How do you do?" They gave her quick little looks around to see if there wasn't somebody else near for her to talk to but there wasn't.

But she does dream of the old days sometimes. Madge don't you?" he said. "Mother always calls him 'Me.'

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON

"The Sign on the Door," the feature picture today, Tuesday and Wednesday at this theatre, is a First National production with Norma Talmadge the popular screen actress in the leading role.

"The Sign on the Door" is the second of the Norma Talmadge productions to be directed by Herbert Brenon, one of the leading creators of silent drama. The first was "The Passion Flower," which has been acclaimed as one of the big screen successes of the season. "The Sign on the Door" is an adaptation of Channing Pollock's stage play of the same name, in which Marjorie Rambeau appeared.

In the cast with Norma are Charles Richman in the role of "Lafe" Regan, Lew Cody as Frank Devereaux, David Proctor as Colonel Gault, Robert Agnew as Alan Churchill, Helen Weir as Helen Regan, Paul Maitland as the District Attorney, Augustus Balfour, Mack Barnes, Martine Burnley, Lew Hendricks and Walter Bussell.

The production is one which is declared to be specially suited to the dramatic ability of Miss Talmadge. Romance and tragedy, flavored with clever bits of humor, figure in a highly dramatic and absorbing plot.

THE PARAMOUNT

"Little Eva Ascends," the screen version of Thomas Deat's Saturday Evening Post story, presents Gareth Hughes in the leading role.

A barnstorming performance of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is one of the features of "Little Eva Ascends," D. Baker's production for S-I-L (Arthur Sawyer and Herbert Lubin). The picture recounts the adventures of a typical road show company of a generation ago.

A small town theatre that might have been reproduced from any town of ten thousand population in the country a few years ago was built on one of Metro's enclosed stages at Hollywood for this picture within a picture. Bloodhounds, stage ice floes, and the typical painted heavenly background of the old drama found their way into the picture.

Gareth Hughes's supporting cast includes My Collins, Eleanor Fields, Loraine, Mark Fenton, John Prince, Fred Warren and W. S. Brown.

The picture will also be shown tomorrow.

THE ORPHEUM

"The Wild Goose," a Paramount picture, presents Mary McLaren, supported by an all-star cast, in the leading role and is the feature picture today and tomorrow.

The story deals with the love triangle treated from a new novel standpoint. Diana Manners is the wife of an architect and she becomes infatuated with another man. When Hastings who is Manners' friend learns that his own wife secretly loves Manners, and that the latter's wife has eloped with the other man, he follows them in his motor car and after forcing the man into his automobile, he deliberately drives over the cliff, thereby saving a double purpose—to give his wife freedom from him and to save the honor of his friend.

Mrs. Mary McLaren plays the part of the romantic minded Diana, while Holmes & Herbert is seen as the husband. Joseph Saitley has the role of Hastings, who brings peace to all concerned by slaying himself and the rouser who has been the cause of trouble. Dorothy Bernard has a delightful role and Newman Kerry, a popular player, is seen as the heavy. The picture is based on Gouverneur Morris' story of "The Wild Goose," the sale of which in novel form, was enormous.
